Wheelchair Accessible Toilets Near Linlithgow Palace

[©2017 WelcomeToScotland.com segment]

Linlithgow Palace Does NOT Have an Adapted Toilet on Site.

The nearest wheelchair-accessible toilet is in the Linlithgow Burgh Halls building, perched on the north side of the Cross Well market square at the High Street end of Kirkgate.

The next nearest wheelchair-accessible toilet is in the new Linlithgow Partnership Centre, across High Street from the southwest corner of the Cross Well market square.

Both of these buildings are downhill from the palace. While reaching them from the palace car park would be relatively easy, getting back up the Kirkgate incline wouldn't be.

On the last page of this PDF you'll find our Linlithgow Map, showing the locations of these buildings and the closest parking options.

The ramp entrance to the Burgh Halls buildings is on Kirkgate, just a few feet north of the Cross Well market square and the entrance to north Vennel car park. This also happens to be the entrance that serves the Burgh Halls Café. It’s a good idea to show your appreciation of the facility by making a café purchase before or after using the loo.
