A Novel Holiday Travel Guidebook

In September of 2018, property owner Mr. David Young and Bell Ingram Design introduced the proposed Finnich Glen development project to the Killearn Community Council with the help of 6 display boards. <http://www.killearncc.org.uk/>

Littering is a major issue throughout the glen which not only causes environmental issues, but also takes considerable time and effort on the part of the landowner to clean up

Increasingly substantial repairs to fences are required to address the constant damage

Fences are not just damaged by traffic use, but are often physically cut and removed

Constant damage to fencing and walls from heavy use resulting in stock losses and requiring expensive repairs

BBQ's, camp fires etc cause damage to the environment of the area and create major littering problems

Litter including smashed glass bottles causes not only dangers to humans, but the animal life as well

Heavy and undirected foot traffic is causing damage to the surrounding environment while dogs cause a serious issue for livestock in the surrounding fields

Constant erosion by foot passage is causing increasing damage to the land, trees and surrounding environment

The map features several key elements:

- Top Left: Photos of plastic bottles on the ground.
- Top Center: Photos of human waste (poop) in a grassy area with poop emojis overlaid.
- Top Right: Photo of a pile of litter, including a smashed glass bottle, with a 'no litter' sign icon.
- Center: Aerial map showing the Finnich Glen area, including Craighat Farm, Finnich Toll, and Deil's Pulpit. A red boundary outlines the glen area.
- Center-Left: Photo of people walking in a riverbed, with a yellow warning sign icon.
- Center-Right: Photo of people walking on a grassy slope, with a yellow warning sign icon.
- Bottom Left: Photo of people walking in a field with dogs, with a yellow warning sign icon.
- Bottom Center: Photo of a dirt path showing significant erosion.
- Bottom Right: Photo of a dirt path showing erosion, with a yellow warning sign icon.
